

Scarcity to Abundance

Discover God's Abundance in Tough Economic Times

Leadership Training

9:00 AM ~ 3:30 PM

An Invitation to Thrive

Churches across the country are facing growing financial pressures as the sluggish economy impacts the church's ability to maintain let alone expand their ministries. As parishioners face rising unemployment and household expenses, charitable giving begins to deteriorate. Many churches are being forced to scale back or eliminate completely vital ministries of outreach and mission. Fortunately there is a solution to this downward spiral of gloom, negativity, and scarcity that is a cancer to a faith community.

At First United Methodist Church, we believe the church of Jesus Christ was meant to do more than just survive, it was meant to THRIVE!

During this Seminar we will...

- Examine the current socio-economic trends impacting giving and what you can do about it
- Discover the key motivators to charitable giving
- Inspire alternative avenues of giving
- Share how to move from a negative cycle of scarcity to a positive cycle of abundance
- Discuss "best practices" for effective year-round stewardship and meaningful budgets
- Learn some practical tips to combat the hyper-consumerism culture
- Engage in an active learning process by exploring five asset area
- Create asset maps for strategic visioning and goal development
- Learn the techniques to lead asset mapping

About the Speaker

David Bell is a Senior Partner with Design Group Int.™ and provides consulting services across North America. David's experience includes stewardship consultation, organizational visioning, leadership development, and planned giving. He creates hope by providing practical help and motivational seminars for faith-based organizations. He empowers leaders to discover their vital role in enabling communities of faith to embody a generous culture and grow their ministries. He is the author of more than 200 articles and has delivered keynote addresses to over 80,000.

As a nationally recognized speaker, he addresses the often-overlooked spiritual discipline of generosity, the debilitating impact of hyper-consumerism on giving, and the positive cycle of abundance-focused communities. The growing demand for his intuitive, strategic vision and passionate leadership is significant. As a pastor, a development director, and a regional and national church executive, David has unique personal experience and insights into church dynamics from various perspectives.

In this seminar, David will discuss the current economic and consumer trends impacting charitable giving and give practical advice for churches looking to do more than just survive.
